

As a pioneering renewable energy company, the Qair Group mission is to continue developing innovative solutions to build a sustainable future.

As a key player in the ecological transition, the Qair Group has focused on defining its sustainability challenges through the expertise of its sustainability division. A double materiality analysis, involving a large number of internal and external stakeholders, has made it possible to identify the Qair Group's sustainability challenges and to establish a sustainability strategy with an associated roadmap, linked to these challenges grouped around four pillars: Climate, Acceptability, Human Capital and Governance.

Our Group Sustainability Policy is based on these four pillars, which together form our guidelines. These are implemented by all our subsidiaries in compliance with the applicable rules in each of the countries where the Group operates.

Accordingly, the Qair Group contributes to the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), adopted in September 2015 by 193 United Nations member states to end poverty, protect the planet, and ensure prosperity for all.

Among these 17 Goals, Qair has identified those to which it contributes most through its organization, its operations, and its long-term strategy.

Driven by a desire to act responsibly and sustainably, Qair Group has integrated a voluntary sustainability approach into the heart of its long-standing mission.

The development of our Group sustainability approach focuses on promoting and continuously improving the three key areas of Sustainable Development: Economic, Environmental, and Social.

Commitment to this approach guarantees progress and sustainability within a framework of shared growth for the company, its employees, its customers, its partners, and more broadly, the local community and civil society in which the Qair Group's activities are embedded.

Building on this momentum and committed to continuing its efforts in sustainable development, the Qair Group strives to foster the involvement of all stakeholders at every stage.

Led by the Sustainability Department, the Qair Group's Sustainability Policy is promoted in each of its subsidiaries by a network of representatives.

Louis Blanchard, CEO

